

The A M Qattan Foundation would like to invite you to the paperback launch of

Palestine Inside Out An Everyday Occupation

By Saree Makdisi

“The most accessible and penetrating guide to the occupation....A must-read.”

-Rashid Khalidi, author of The Iron Cage

Not since Edward Said has there been such an articulate Arab voice on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. In devastating detail, Saree Makdisi reveals how the "peace process" institutionalised Palestinians' loss of control over their lives.

The author will be in conversation with Chris Doyle, Director of CAABU, followed by a Q&A and book signing

Thursday 13th May 2010
6:30 for 7:00 start till 8:30pm

At

The Mosaic Rooms
A M Qattan Foundation
Tower House
226 Cromwell Road
London SW5 0SW

Entrance free but booking is essential

Please RSVP to:

info@mosaicrooms.org

or call 0207 370 9990

Nearest tube:

Earl's Court (Earl's Court Road exit)

Buses: 74, 328, C1, C3

Raised in Beirut, and educated in the United States, Saree Makdisi is a professor of English and comparative literature at UCLA. He has published commentaries on the Middle East that have appeared in a wide range of newspapers, including the Guardian, The Chicago Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle, An-Nahar (Beirut) and the Los Angeles Times, where he is a frequent contributor. He has also published pieces on the Arab-Israeli conflict in The Nation and the London Review of Books.

Chris Doyle is the Director of The Centre for Arab-British Understanding (CAABU)